Peace & Terrorism Studies: Building Solidarity for New Reconstruction

“The task of a revolutionary – is to make revolution.” - George Jackson

This syllabus was designed for comrades and revolutionaries who are looking to start organizing around an Afro/Black Queer Feminist Liberation Army and Movement. This syllabus was designed to carry on the Black Radical Tradition and empower and inspire our People to action through consciousness-raising, community building and education. This can be used for individuals, groups, communities and organizations to help develop a relevant political consciousness alongside their radical organizing efforts.

Objective 1: Learn about concepts of justice, equity and fairness across multiple social, cultural, political and geographical contexts.

Objective 2: Raise a shared critical class consciousness and elevate class solidarity between participants.

Objective 3: Practice critically identifying and recognizing 21st century oppressions and its connection to historical conditions in the Global North and Global South.

Objective 4: Practice critically identifying and imagining anti-oppression organizing strategies including uprisings and rebellion.
